SCHEDULE FLIGHTS

According to the F3P rules, each competitor will have four flights with preliminary schedule F3P AP-17.

The top best twenty-five percent placed competitors after the preliminary flights will have three more flights with final schedule F3P-AF17. According to the paragraph 5.9.10 c) clarification approved by the 2016 CIAM Plenary Meeting, the two panels of five judges will be combined in only one panel of ten judges for those final flights.

Aerobatics Freestyle to Music (AFM) flights

After the official flights of the World Championship will be finished, two AFM flights will be organized to allow competitors to demonstrate their artistic performances in conjunction with music. The number of competitors for those AFM flights will be defined according to the available time on the last day.

The competitor may use a different music and/or a different sequence of manoeuvres for his two AFM flights.

The panel of judges will be composed of the judges voluntary to judge those AFM flights which means ten judges maximum but possibly less.

For the first round of AFM flights, the competitors will fly in the inverted order of the World Championship placing. For the second round of AFM flights, the competitors will fly in the inverted order of the intermediate placing after the first round of AFM flights.

The TBL statistical averaging scoring system will not be used. For each competitor and each flight, the highest and lowest judge's flight scores will not be taken in account. The remaining judge's scores will be normalized to the percentage of 1000 points in the ratio of the competitor's flight score over best competitor's flight score.

The final placing will be done taking in account for each competitor his best normalized flight score.
